Green light for IMG project

by Arlene Surprenant

The state Housing Appeals Committee (HAC) has upheld an appeal by Wilmington Arboretum Apartments Associates and directed the local board of appeals to issue a comprehensive permit to IMG for a 204 unit rental apartment complex off Ballardvale Street. Town officials said Monday they will appeal the decision.

In a decision dated January 19, HAC ruled that "the decision of the board of appeals was unreasonable and not consistent with local needs."

On August 18, 1987, the Wilmington Board of Appeals had denied a comprehensive permit to the applicant until numerous conditions are met. In the recent HAC ruling, additional conditions were imposed including a limit of 48 feet on building height, a total of 1.5 parking spaces allowed per dwelling unit, and a minimum of 10 feet for rear and side yards.

According to Town Manager Buzz Stappczynski, the appeals committee, in effect, "threw down all our arguments" in issuing its 32 page document spelling out its decision. During several public hearings presided over by committee chairman Maurice Corman in 1988, Town Counsel Alan Altman questioned the legality of access from Ballardvale Street, the project's density, traffic and water impact, and fire safety within the proposed project. His main argument, however, was that the proposed sewer connection with the western branch of the line to the Pilcher Street Pumping Station would be contrary to the town's Master Sewer Plan. The applicant argued that a requirement that they connect to the eastern branch of the line would be "uneconomic" since the line has yet to be built and Arboretum Associates would be faced with constructing "a significant portion" of that branch.

Arthur Smith, chairman of the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commission, called the state decision "irresponsible."

"If we stand still for their decision, we might as well throw away our master plan. They're destroying everything we're trying to do, in the guise of affordable housing," Smith told the Town Crier. He said his board confirmed a previous decision to file an appeal when it met last Thursday.

In a summary of evidence, the appeals committee said the regional need for low to moderate income housing outweighs other considerations like the need to protect the health and safety of the project's occupants or the need for better site and building design. Committee members noted that Arboretum Associates presented evidence showing that Wilmington fell 357 units short of its 10 percent goal for affordable housing and that 419 Wilmington households were in need of lower cost homes.

"Neither the town nor the board (of appeals) presented any contrary evidence on the issue of local and regional need," the document said.

In the decision, the committee pointed out with a density of 9.27 units per acre on the 22 acre site, the proposed project "is well below those of its nearest multi-unit neighbors, which range from 12.2 to as high as 40.8." On the issue of access, it was decided the apartment complex could be accessed from Ballardvale Street with emergency access from Arlene Avenue. On the issue of traffic, the committee claimed Wilmington's Safety Officer "did not provide the committee with any analysis of road capacity or levels of service."

The document also states "no construction shall commence until detailed construction plans and specifications shall have been approved by the subsidizing agency or agencies and subsidy assistance for the project has been committed."

Altman said Tuesday he has already filed three motions with the housing appeals committee.

One motion is a petition for a re-hearing on the basis that HAC misunderstood the town's contentions of law. A second motion is to stay the issuance of building permits. If HAC allows the request, the permits are stayed until the town gets its appeal through. If it's denied, the issue goes before a judge in Superior Court, said Altman.

Altman said he would rather not comment on the town's chances with an appeal because such cases are "so unpredictable."

Aquifer protection by-law in the works

by Arlene Surprenant

A zoning bylaw designed to protect the town's aquifers and recharge areas is expected to be presented to voters at the April town meeting. IEP Inc., an environmental consulting firm hired by the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commission, is preparing the zoning article.

At last Thursday's meeting of the Water and Sewer Commissioners, the consultants reviewed an overlay map showing two recharge areas and one aquifer protection zone encompassing all town wells. The preliminary map also identified characteristics of overlapping areas in the general vicinity of Aldrich Road, North Wilmington, and Butters Row.

According to commission chairman Arthur Smith, IEP will continue to work on a computer model which will reveal how long the system would last without rain. A special pump test, added Smith, will be done on one of the wells to see how much water is part of the recharge area.

Smith said he felt IEP would come up with one master zoning article with several sections for voters to approve. The article, said Wilmington Planning Director, Janet Stearns, would focus on a groundwater protection district, its boundaries, and a definition of what can and cannot go in that area. Stearns, whose planning board will be giving input and holding a public hearing on the proposed bylaw March 27, said the article will set up some design criteria, will outline uses which can be allowed by special permit in the district, and will spell out uses that would be prohibited.

The proposed bylaw would prohibit such things as sanitary landfills and open dumps; facilities that generate, treat, store, or dispose of hazardous waste; junkyards; and individual sewage disposal systems within the groundwater district.

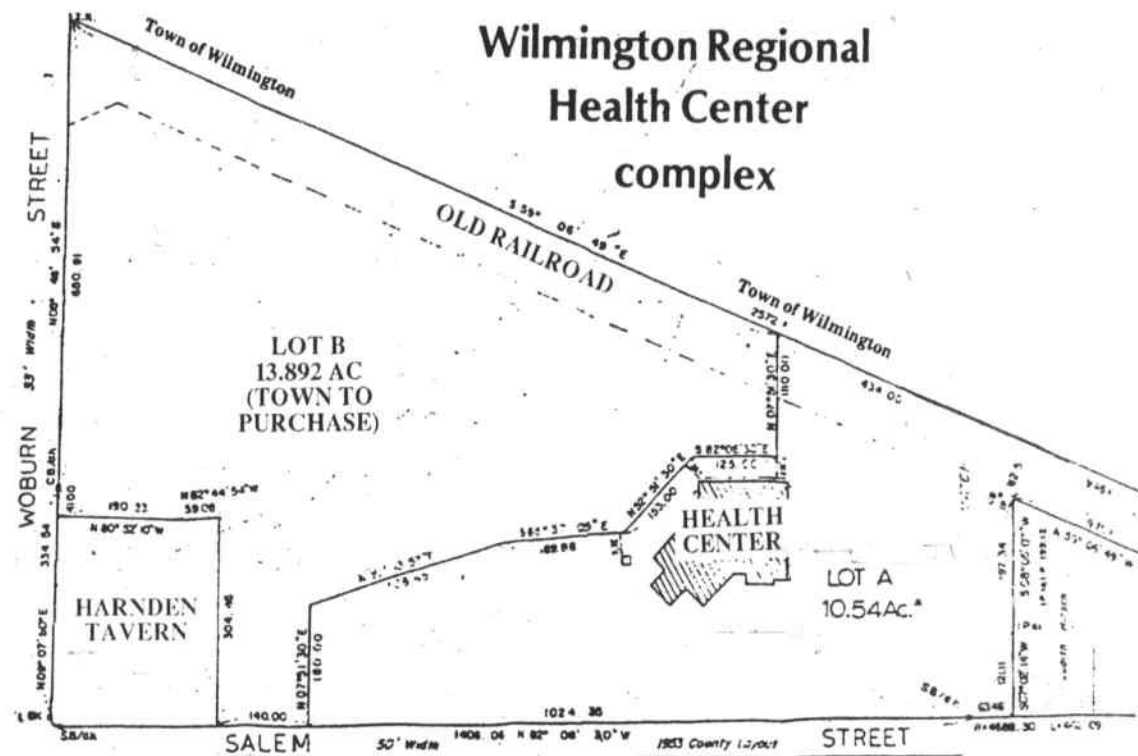

Anyone applying for a special permit will have to file a request in writing. The application would have to contain a complete description of the proposed use, a site plan extending at least 400 feet in all directions, and engineering data proving protection of groundwater resources.

Water and sewer commissioners will be seeking input from various town boards as well as the Wilmington League of Women Voters as they try to iron out possible problems with the article to avoid amendments on the town meeting floor.

Wilmington Regional Health Center complex

The Regional Health Center property has been subdivided into two parcels. The parcel designated "Lot A" would be sold, along with the health center, to the New England Memorial Hospital of Stoneham for $4.5 million. The Town of Wilmington has bid $700,000 for Lot B. Both bids are subject to counter offers.

Town offers $700k for health center land

Last Friday Choate-Symmes Hospitals, Inc. filed a motion with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court seeking approval, subject to the receipt of counter offers, of the sale of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW) to New England Memorial Hospital for a purchase price of about $4.5 million.

New England Memorial's bid was selected from a series of bids from parties who expressed interest in purchasing the 11-year-old facility. Choate-Symmes also sought authority from the Court to sell the adjacent 12 acre parcel of land to the Town of Wilmington for $700,000, again subject to the receipt of counter-offers.

Wilmington is planning to buy the land for aquifer protection, with the money being bonded and paid off through the water bills.

The Bankruptcy Court is overseeing the sale of these assets, following the October 5 filing of Chapter 11 by Choate-Symmes Hospitals, Inc., the health center's owner.

According to Choate-Symmes' legal counsel, parties interested in making counter-offers will have to do so by a deadline to be established by the Court. After all offers are received, the Court will decide which offer suits the interests of Choate-Symmes, its creditors and those served by the health center.

The RHCW is the second Choate-Symmes division to be put up for sale. Following the same process, Woburn's Choate Hospital was sold on January 5 for $3.1 million. The Caulfield Center, still located at the Choate site, and the Symmes Hospital in Arlington remain in full operation.

Fay sees $12.9m school budget

by Arlene Surprenant

School Supt. William Fay told the Wilmington School Committee last week though the system needs a $13.4 million budget for FY 1991 and the town manager has recommended a reduced budget of $11.8 million for Wilmington schools, he feels the actual figures may come in between $12.3 and $12.8 million.

Fay said in view of all the evidence before the administration, he feels the committee will be looking at the middle of the road figures.

According to one reliable source, the fiscal 1991 recommended budget will likely come in close to $12.9 million. If this happens, the source said, approximately 30 support and teaching positions would be cut.

The school committee will continue budget talks Wednesday (tonight) at 7 p.m. in the Roman House. At that time, said Fay, he will go over the best and worst case scenarios and review the budget requests with the department heads.

The committee was divided on how best to proceed. Dr. James Demos said he prefers to hear first from principals and department heads to get a feeling for their needs. Brad Jackson said he favors an overview of the superintendent's recommendation first. Andrea Paglia requested that budget meetings be televised in fairness to the public.

Fay maintained no matter what direction budget talks take, the committee and public should remember "teaching staff is the key and without teachers we have nothing." He added even the $12 million plus figure may not be "palatable" to a public seeking to maintain a quality education in Wilmington.

Hats all, folks!

Tuesday was Hat Day in the Wilmington schools. These youngsters are in Joan Walsh's first grade class at the Wildwood School. More Hat Day pictures appear on Page 7.

Help on horizon for career-bound seniors

by Arlene Surprenant

With the help of the Wilmington High School guidance department, the school's business partnership program is moving in a new direction.

According to program liaison Al Fessenden, he and the guidance department are in the process of compiling a list of seniors who will be seeking fulltime employment after graduation. Fessenden hopes to interest local firms in preparing seniors for the workforce before they graduate. He said seniors applying to colleges get help and information from college representatives who visit the school.

"Not much is done for the career entry seniors," Fessenden said.

Fessenden and the guidance department plan to invite personnel directors to come into the school this spring to prepare seniors for job interviews and help them narrow down job choices in their chosen field. He said firms in the partnership program, in turn, will get a better workforce.

"We're not trying to entice kids away from college," Fessenden said. He explained he would just like to offer non college-bound seniors the same help their peers are getting now.

Guidance Director Florence Athanasia has been working closely with Fessenden to get the idea off the ground. She has already spoken to parents in the high school PAC and would like to make sure other parents are aware of the program. Fessenden said companies in the partnership seem to be enthusiastic about the concept.

Students who plan to begin their careers directly after graduation are encouraged to file an application with Fessenden detailing their skills and the kind of job they would like to pursue. Next year, said Fessenden, he hopes to target the junior class along with the seniors.

High School raises $235 for AIDS program

Wilmington High School students, parents and staff showed they care about the fight against Aids. A fundraiser was held as part of an Aids Awareness Program held in December. The sum of $235.00 was raised and has been donated to the Children's Hospital Aids Program.

The money was sent in memory of Jim Cushing, a Wilmington High school graduate who died of Aids in March 1989 at the age of 34. His widow Suzi, has become very active and involved in Aids Education. Through her willingness to share her personal experience and the impact it has had on her life and that of their daughter, she knows, as all Aids educators know, that the only hope is prevention through education and research.

Correction

The dates for the tax rates in last week's Town Crier were wrong. The 1990 rates listed on the front page were, in reality, the 1989 rates and the 1991 rates were in fact the 1990 rates.

This year's residential rate is $8.76 and the C.I.P. rate is $16.56.

School board rejects pay increase for permanent subs

by Arlene Surprenant

The Wilmington School Committee rejected a proposal last Wednesday by Supt. William Fay to raise the pay level of long term substitutes from $50 to $117 a day to keep the Wilmington system competitive with that in other towns. The $117 figure is the minimum salary for permanent teachers holding a Bachelor's Degree.

The committee voted four to two against the measure until the budget picture becomes clearer in the months ahead. Only Chairman Bob Surran and member John DeMarco supported Fay's recommendation, saying this was really an issue of "equal pay for equal work."

Fay explained the increase would apply to permanent substitutes who take over in case of illness, retirement, or maternity leave. After 60 days on the job, Fay added, substitutes could then apply for the increase. Currently, the rate of pay for a sub with a Bachelor's Degree is $45 a day. After ten days service, the rate increases to $50 a day. Non-degree subs are paid $40 a day and, in some cases, are increased to $45.

Fay called Wilmington's substitutes loyal and said they do "an excellent job." Presently, there are three permanent subs on the payroll.

Most of the committee seemed to feel substitute teachers with either a bachelor's or masters degree are entitled to some kind of an increase, but they were unsure if the salary should jump to $117 or whether this was the time to make a change.

"I find this very difficult to swallow," said Brad Jackson of the proposed increase of 134 percent. Jackson said he was concerned with the budgetary implications and the fact that they would be paying two teachers for essentially one job.

While he favored tabling the whole issue until after the budget is approved, Dr. James Demos said he would either want to pay subs as temporary employees or put them on the step that they're worth.

"I have to look at this at this time as a salary increase," said Shirley Callan, who made the motion to reject the recommendation. However, she praised the superintendent for looking into the substitute policy.

Fay said the bottom line is to obtain quality people for the Wilmington system.

"We're talking about certified people," he said, adding without the raise, the temporary teachers might be attracted to towns that offer more pay.

It was noted that long term subs not only have to maintain order in the classroom, but they prepare lesson plans and assume all the duties of a regular teacher. Surran said workers in fast food restaurants today earn more than certified substitutes.

$10.4m budget approved for Shawsheen Tech

by Arlene Surprenant

The Shawsheen Tech School Committee last week approved Supt./Director Charles Lyons' recommended budget of $10,398,137 for FY 1991. The figure represents a 3.23 percent increase over the fiscal '90 appropriation of $10,072,615.

Committeeman Kevin Sowyrda reminded the public with $143,067 being voluntarily returned to the five member towns last year, the school had actually been operating with a $9,929,548 budget for part of the year. Sowyrda said Wilmington's assessment next year will be $1,056,145, $9,000 less than in 1990.

Sowyrda called the slight increase in the '91 budget "dismal," considering the school has fixed costs that are "very exorbitant." While 61 percent of the budget is in salaries, the rest covers such things as heating and building maintenance, insurance, transportation, shop equipment, and textbooks and supplies.

"Wherever we could cut some corners we did," stated Sowyrda. He explained along those lines there will be no increase in programs; three vacant teaching positions will remain unfilled; chemlab was dropped for a savings of $52,218; requests for new equipment were denied; and there will be a decrease in funds for textbooks, tools, and general supplies. According to their contract, however, Shawsheen teachers will get a six percent salary increase next fiscal year.

Sowyrda explained Lyons and his committee tried to keep assessments down for member towns.

"We never had the attitude we're not a part of their (the towns') budget difficulties. We've always shared in the sacrifices and we're not going to be exempt from the tough times that lie ahead," said the committeeman. Sowyrda said while the committee approved a budget that is "responsible" and responsive to the needs of students in their care, members also approved one that is sensitive to the crisis at the state and town levels.

"There's a price being paid by education because of the state financial situation. So may programs are in jeopardy and that makes for a very bleak future," Sowyrda said.

Sowyrda praised Wilmington Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski for recommending the Tech's assessment figure in his proposed town budget and for including the Tech budget in the fixed costs part of his budget. He also recognized Wilmington fincom members Walter Kaminski and Bill Hanlon for "religiously" attending committee meetings and being a part of the Tech's budget process.

Shawsheen Estates sewer plan under revision

Proponents of Shawsheen River Estates are currently revising their sewer plan to avoid wetlands and a problem drainage area on the Shawsheen Elementary School field. The 220 unit HOP (Homeownership Opportunity Program) project will be located off Hopkins Street.

According to Town Engineer Harold Gillam, plans call for the sewer to come from Lake Street across Shawsheen Avenue to the back of the Shawsheen athletic field through the project itself to a manhole on Hopkins Street. Gillam said after making a recent inspection with the conservation administrator, it was noted the plan would have to change to allow the sewer line to come across the school property at a different angle to avoid the wet area. He added it was his understanding that developer Jay Tighe still has to obtain property easements from property owners directly across the school so the line can come in from that direction. Tighe will also have to make sure there aren't more than 300 feet between manholes.

Arthur Smith, chairman of the Water and Sewer Commission, said this week project proponents were "finally getting their act together" and getting their various sewer connections. He said Tighe has to put in a connection for a field house on the Shawsheen School field and his plans are not allowed to interfere with athletic programs in that area.

Septic system not up to code

by Arlene Surprenant

A Billerica septic system installer has been notified he will be fined $50 a day for not building a system on Forrest Street up to code.

Health Director Greg Erickson discovered some problems on the houselot when he recently made a finished grade inspection. Erickson told his health board last week he sent two letters to installer Charles Todd warning him of the fine and the possibility of refusing him a new license in the future. Though a new house has already been built, said Erickson, he noticed the septic system was low and there was a "good sized" puddle on top of it with no drainage. Title V septic regulations reportedly requires a minimum two percent grade for run off.

Health board members said the fine would go into effect after a public hearing on the renewal of Todd's license.

TAX BREAKS ON OVERSEAS JOBS

Americans working overseas get some real tax advantages to make up for the discomforts and loneliness that may go along with being away from their native land. That's why some stay away for years.

The American abroad can exclude up to $70,000 of foreign-earned income, deduct foreign taxes paid on additional income, and can also exclude or deduct some of the high foreign housing costs. The rules for overseas workers require that they be physically present in a foreign country for at least 330 days during 12 consecutive months. All the exclusions, added together, may wipe out any tax liability for the year for the American working abroad - but not the requirement to file returns. The exclusions must be reported on Form 2555, attached to the 1040; if the form is not filled out, the exclusions or deductions do not apply. If the worker files late, after return to the United States, the Internal Revenue Service may or may not accept the form and/or may charge penalties and interest.

The Wilmington Industrial Awareness and Response Group (WIARG), and particularly the above named members, with the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce, established a fund which provided the Wilmington Fire Department and the Local Emergency Planning Committee (LEPC) with a computerized system of managing emergency response and planning.

Software for this system, Computer Aided Management of Emergency Operations (CAMEO), was developed by personnel of the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration in cooperation with Seattle, Washington Fire Department. CAMEO project management by geographic regions has been given to the U.S. Coast Guard as part of its responsibilities as members of the National Response Team.

The computer and CAMEO program were recently installed at the Wilmington Fire Department as a gift from WIARG to assist first responders in the event of an accident or emergency.

WIARG is a voluntary, pro-active group comprised of about 15 of the largest chemical users in the town. The group was established about four years ago with the objectives of providing its combined resources to the town to enhance emergency response for the mutual safety of all and to provide a sharing of related safety and technology resources. Obtaining CAMEO for the town is a major step toward attaining WIARG's objectives.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce will recognize the Wilmington Industrial Awareness and Response Group at its annual meeting/dinner dance on February 9, 1990. "Community Spirit" awards will be made to the eight companies above responsible for making the Cameo Program a reality for Wilmington.

Anyone desiring ticket information regarding the annual meeting/dinner dance should call the Chamber office 657-7211.

Any interested companies, officials or residents are invited to attend.

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Reaction to the town manager's proposed budget cuts has been swift throughout Wilmington as people react with shock at the extent of the layoffs while some political leaders consider alternatives which may be at their disposal.

Condemning it as a budget which "needlessly jeopardizes police and fire protection in our community," Selectman Chester Bruce is already coordinating efforts for a counter budget proposal in response to Town Manager "Buzz" Stapeczynski's fiscal year 1991 budget package which was unveiled January 23.

Bruce is recruiting support for a "less painful" budget for next year which will hold harmless the public safety departments through other administrative and "non-essential personnel" cuts.

"We're going to have to make some tough decisions over the next few weeks," said Bruce, who intends to work closely with his colleagues on the board and members of the finance committee to avoid cutting the police and fire departments. "These are the people we depend on when we become the victims of crime and illness, or when a fire breaks out in our homes; they should take priority over other positions which the manager left untouched in his proposal last week," said Bruce.

The deep budget cuts recommended for next year are based on the premise that voters will be holding on tightly to their pocketbooks and that the town coffers will have to survive without the additional revenue of a Proposition 2 1/2 override.

Though the town manager recommends fire department savings inclusive of $44,647 in four demotions and one layoff, Bruce will make a counter proposal of eliminating funding for either the recreation director ($43,161) or the assistant town manager ($41,058). "Both of these positions are important, but in comparison they're less important," said Bruce.

Proposed police department curtailments include $70,973 in three demotions and two layoffs. As an alternative, Bruce is calling for the elimination of the new planning director ($39,597), cutting a senior clerk at the board of assessors ($23,243), and changing the status of one of the police department clerks to part time for a savings of $11,881.

The centerpiece of Bruce's plan is to maintain present emergency personnel staffing levels at the fire and police departments. Nonetheless, slated cuts for next year will forestall the funding of six vacant slots at the police department and four at the fire department. "It's my intention to at least maintain the same level of police and fire protection which we have today, in a community where the daytime population has already hit 30,000," said Selectman Bruce, who's alternative budget plan would not spare the budget ax falling on the evening (civilian) dispatcher at the fire department as well as other public safety programming cuts.

Meanwhile, as some have taken to criticizing Bruce for a conflict of interest because his son is affected by police department layoffs, the selectman himself offers no apologies. "They can put him at the top of the layoff list if they want to. I'm fighting to protect public safety for everyone," said Bruce.

In point of fact, Bruce is joined by Selectman Jim Stewart whose brother and uncle are affected by cuts, as well as this writer's father.

However, preserving a public safety position will benefit all of us, not just those who are related to the people earning their living running into burning buildings, administering CPR, and protecting our lives and possessions. The benefit to relations is more peace of mind than anything else.

Another budget proposal which is being bandied about would involve the public employees' bargaining units agreeing to a cut in their scheduled contractual pay raises for next fiscal year, thus alleviating the need for personnel reductions. But for the moment it's Bruce's budget plan which will remain in the spotlight. The overwhelming majority of voters will begin to squint at the thought of public safety cuts, and on the floor of town meeting alternatives to layoffs and demotions of emergency personnel could be received with open arms.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

As a spokesperson for a citizens' group, asking for an investigation of Tewksbury's Zoning Board of Appeals, I'm writing to respond to the presentations and discussions about this subject at last Tuesday's Board of Selectmen's meeting.

It was disappointing to say the least that the overwhelming amount of the public comment was totally missing the point. It would serve us all well to remember what the key issue is here.

By popular vote, the citizens of Tewksbury have enacted one acre zoning for the town. The simple question our citizens' group has put before the special selectmen's sub-committee is this: Does evidence presented to the sub-committee show the ZBA acts and votes to promote and uphold the acre zoning law and M.G.L. Chapter 40A? Or, does the weight of evidence prove the ZBA acts improperly and in opposition to acre zoning?

While we all wait for the sub-committee's judgement and recommendations on this question, let's all of us focus our energy on bringing out just the facts that bear on the practices of the ZBA. To be sure, this is an emotional issue, which is probably why we heard so much last Tuesday that was off the mark. Discussion and opinion about the quality of the local press coverage, the current hard times in the building industry, our state's fiscal crisis, outside investors' perception of our town, of the Charles Stuart case contribute absolutely nothing to the process of arriving at a fair resolution to the central question at hand.

Let us also not forget the fact that it is both our right as well as our obligation as citizens to make sure our government responds to our will. Our appearance before the Selectmen and our actions to bring the facts of this issue to light should receive nothing less than the full support of all who believe in and respect the democratic process. Truly, it is a sad day for Tewksbury when citizens come forward to present their concerns in good faith to their elected representatives and are told to "Go to Hell!"

Let's all stick to the facts and the point.

Sincerely,
Jim Richard

Dear Larz:

In the January 10, 1990 edition of the Town Crier, you ran a rather extensive article called "Historical Perspective 1980-1989." The headline at the top of page 12 in the supplement said "Wilmington earns winning tradition." This article showed pictures of various sports events and teams as well as listed all the different awards received and championships won by Wilmington and Tewksbury young athletes in the past decade.

A very talented group of 11 and 12 year old female athletes was unfortunately omitted from this article; namely the most recent 1989 Little League Softball State Champions - our very own Wilmington Major League Girls All Star Team. This team brought home to Wilmington the Massachusetts State Championship Flag this past July, 1989. They went on to represent not only Wilmington but the State of Massachusetts in the Regional Finals held in Maine in August, 1989. Suffice it to say that most of these girls gave up a great part of their summer vacation (along with their coaches and families) in order to accomplish this State Title. Also omitted from this article were the Wilmington Senior League (ages 13-15) Girls 1989 district 13 Softball Champs. All in all these two teams made for a very successful 1989 softball season and continued Wilmington's "winning tradition" for the decade.

If the author of this article could dig up the facts and remember a 1980 girls softball State Championship and a 1982 girls District 13 championship, then certainly he or she should have been able to dig up and record the most recent 1989 championships.

Some of the girls were very disappointed when they read the article and reached the 1989 segment (which only listed three accomplishments (all of which were from Tewksbury)).

Sincerely,
Joanne S. NealeMr. Louis Carciofi, Selectman
Tewksbury Town Hall
Tewksbury, Mass. 01876

Thank you very much for your words of wisdom Tuesday evening that all the concerned citizens of Tewksbury as well as the local newspaper should go to Hell.

Maybe you should open your eyes as wide as you open your mouth. If you did, you would see that if the present ZBA is allowed to continue the same illegal practices that they are now conducting, living in this town may become a Hell.

I have been a resident of this town for 34 years, Mr. Carciofi, I did not just blow in, and I have seen it go from a nice, rural town to a place where living space is becoming intolerable.

The first thing the people of this town should do is follow through on the removal of the present ZBA and secondly, make sure people like you, Mr. Carciofi, never again serve in an elected office or appointed office in this town.

When you can tell the people of this town, with nothing else to gain, except concern for the well being of the town and its people, to go to Hell, then you cannot really be a voice of the people.

Residents of Tewksbury, we cannot move on Main Street after 4:30 p.m. on any given day because of the traffic situation. The builders are raping this town and eventually you, the residents of Tewksbury, will suffer most.

The builders after they're done (and some have already) will probably pack up and move from the town and you and I will be left. Left with property worth half its value because of the building glut that is now going on.

It's not only my property I am concerned for, but the property of every citizen in this town.

But we can't do it alone. We need your help, and remember, it's not too late. We can make a change, and we can make a difference.

Please call or write the selectmen of Tewksbury today and tell them it's time to give the town back to the townspeople and not a few builders as it has been up til now.

Remember, the first step is by removing the present ZBA.

Skepticism of government is a newspaper's duty

by Bill Conlon

"Go to hell."

What a disappointing thing to hear, especially from someone who relies upon popular opinion to remain in office.

Still, I'm hard put to say anything unkind about Mr. Carciofi, no matter how I might be personally stung by his comment. I've always felt that Mr. Carciofi expresses his opinions clearly and boldly, and that is something in short supply at all levels of government. After covering him on the school committee, and on the board of appeals, I came to admire his bold statements, and I silently applauded when he was voted in as a selectman. Unlike many, he speaks his mind.

His comment came in response to editorials which have appeared in the space from time to time. The ending tone of some of my editorials was that the public is keeping an eye on the selectmen in regards to the board of appeals, and that is what drew the "go to hell" remark. That wasn't a threat or a request for public scrutiny. People are certainly watching the selectmen, especially regarding the board of appeals. After all, it was the citizens who first came forward with all those complaints about the board of appeals in the first place. It wasn't the newspapers.

The gathering last week at the selectmen's meeting had another interesting aspect. There were about 100 people in the room, or the same amount as the citizen's group protesting the board of appeals. Excellent. Now it becomes a simple matter of which side can bring out the most voters, because it will certainly fall upon the voters to decide this issue, eventually. We'll see.

Whether or not the selectmen will take decisive action against the board of appeals is something we'll learn after the subcommittee issues its final report next Tuesday. Hundreds of people are itching to read that one. We can't wait, but we'll see soon enough.

And if the board of appeals issue escalates beyond the selectmen's level, we'll print that too. You see, this newspaper is here for the duration. We aren't going away, good news or bad.

Is Tewksbury a bad town? Certainly not! The town has perhaps the best police and fire departments that it's ever been my pleasure to cover as a reporter, and that's a strong statement. The DPW and school system are likewise above complaint. I've never written a single bad word about any of those organizations, in hard news or in editorials. The citizens of the town are turning out for public events in bigger and bigger numbers, from the dedication of public statues by Mico Kaufman to the Christmas lights on the town commons to Homecoming to the upcoming (and big!) Memorial Day parade. Tewksbury is a fine town. And yes, we cover the good news all the time, from Eagle scouts to local sports to noteworthy achievements by town residents. Day in and day out. Lots of good news.

But all is not perfect. People are complaining, and it wasn't rabble rousing by the newspapers that caused it. We're here to provide a public forum for discussion, but so far it seems that only one side of the issue has been trying to explain their stance. The supporters of the appeals board blew their stacks last week, but they could have been expressing their opinions all along, right here. They haven't. Besides, the people of Tewksbury are strong enough to ride out any tempest, and we'll be here with them.

A newspaper is duty-bound to remain skeptical about government at all levels, from Tewksbury politics to the United States President. An informed electorate is the basis of democracy, and newspapers are the ones who try to keep the readers, the voters, informed, no matter how ugly the job may get at times. Opinion pieces round out the hard news, by offering insights, future impacts, suggestions and a bit of humor at times. We have opinions, like everyone else, and they are open to disagreement from anybody. And our opinions are only printed on this page. Look at the top of the page. "Opinion"

"The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter." Thomas Jefferson wrote that, not us.

We're here to stay, folks. No apologies.

Henry Porter's historic legacy

A sort of treasure arrived at the Town Crier office recently. It was a collection of newspapers, made by Henry Porter, over many years. The former Wilmington postmaster had been saving each and every newspaper which had stories of Wilmington.

Prominent, for instance, was a Boston paper with a story of the Coconut Grove fire of about half a century ago. Four Fitzgerald boys from Silver Lake died in that fire.

From that date on, just about everything that happened in Wilmington and was in a newspaper was in Henry's treasure trove. Betty Downs, the lady who is known as "BD" has been sorting out the papers - which, incidentally, will not be publicly exhibited after she has finished.

Two photographs in the treasure are of Dr. Henry Hiller and France Hiller, photographs that were made in Boston sometime before 1888, when the German born druggist died. He drove his carriage into the back yard and somehow fell from the carriage one day in November. The cause of the death was recorded as a broken neck.

Dr. Hiller was the person who had a laboratory built on Church Street, for his use. It is now known as the Masonic Hall.

Henry also had been saving items about the Rotary Club of Wilmington. It is possible those items will be delivered soon, after which the president will have to figure out what to do with them.

Task force seeks way to retain town land

by Arlene Surprenant

One of the initiatives currently under review by the affordable housing task force is a property management program where members would work with the Wilmington Community Development Corporation to sell affordable homes.

At their last meeting, task force members asked representatives of the non-profit corporation if they would be interested in building lower cost homes on town-owned land. The homes would be sold at below market value. The town would retain the land and it would be up to WCDC to make sure taxes are paid and rent is collected, according to WCDC President Bob DiPalma. He added he felt this type of program provides a good alternative to selling land.

Much of the discussion at their last meeting, however, centered on the progress of the affordable home on Everett Avenue, which is being built by students in the Shawsheen Tech homebuilding program.

According to WCDC Vice-President Dennis Volpe, the interior partitions are up, rough plumbing and electrical work is done, sheetrock is being installed inside and siding is being installed on the outside.

Building Inspector James Russo praised the student's work and the quality of the construction which was noticed during frequent inspections of the property.

"The quality of everything is just superb," agreed DiPalma.

The house will either be sold to the Wilmington Housing Authority for rental property or will be sold through a lottery process. WHA President Kevin McMillan told members his board will be meeting with state officials February 6 to try to obtain the necessary funds. If they're not successful, said DiPalma, all parties will meet on February 8 to begin setting up guidelines for the lottery.

DiPalma said estimates right now call for selling the house for $80,000. Both DiPalma and Volpe said the WCDC will assume an $80,000 mortgage in May and, if there's any delay, it could cost their corporation $1,000 a month in interest.

"As a non-profit group, we obviously don't have the ability to carry that kind of a load. If there's a delay, the house would no longer be affordable and that runs counter to what we're trying to achieve," said Volpe. He added they'd like to have an identified buyer by April.

WCTV looking for new manager

by Arlene Surprenant

The non-profit cable corporation, WCTV, is currently seeking a new general manager upon the resignation of former manager Phil Ramasci.

According to WCTV President Charles Gilbert, Ramasci submitted his resignation without explanation January 22. At a special meeting of his board, the resignation was accepted, effective January 31.

Ramasci was hired November 7, 1988 and was given a ten percent raise in salary last November.

Gilbert said Ramasci had worked on a contractual basis for the town and was responsible for conducting basic classes in TV production, editing, and cable TV work. To fulfill the terms of the contract, WCTV covers selectmen's meetings, school committee meetings, sports events, and other important town activities.

The main impact of Ramasci's departure will be felt in the area of programming, which will continue on a limited basis, said Gilbert. However, he added, with three volunteers who are exerting themselves a bit more, his board hopes to "maintain the status quo."

"By hook or by crook we'll get them (meetings and events) covered, even if it means we have to cut back in other areas," Gilbert said.

Candidates for general manager should have charisma, knowledge of cable production, and hold either a bachelor's degree or have commensurate experience. Salary, said Gilbert will probably be in the $22,000 to $24,000 range.

Though the position will be posted in a few weeks, Gilbert said applications are currently being accepted. All inquiries should be sent to Charles Gilbert, P.O. Box 35, Wilmington, Ma. 01887.

Planning board schedule

In February the Wilmington Planning Board will begin a new schedule of meeting regularly on the first and third Tuesday of each month. Meeting dates in February will be Tuesday, February 6 and 20, 1990.

The planning board has also established a new policy of closing their meeting agenda at noon on the Thursday prior to the upcoming Tuesday meeting. Anyone interested in seeking an appointment with the planning board in the future should be aware of this noon Thursday deadline. The planning board office is located in the town hall and is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Republican attorney in race for selectman

The Wilmington selectmen's race has attracted a Republican attorney. Mark T. Haldane of 13 Arlene Avenue has declared his candidacy for the three year term on the Board of Selectmen.

A delegate to the Republican State Convention, Haldane is also the Wilmington/Tewksbury coordinator for the Citizens for Limited Taxation. He is also a member of the Republican Town Committee.

"This is the year for people who are not political insiders to say, 'We are going to take back our government,'" said Haldane. "Government at the state level is paralyzed, and it's going to stay paralyzed until we get a new governor. That makes local action and local decisions all the more important. It magnifies the importance of local government."

"If we look for the state to bail us out of our problems, then we aren't going to get anything accomplished. We are going to have to make some tough decisions about what is realistic for this town to spend."

Haldane is employed as in-house counsel for Security Systems, Inc. of East Boston. A 1977 graduate of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, he holds a JD degree from the New England School of Law. He was born in Beverly, and was raised in Michigan. He and his wife Susan have one son, Matthew, age three.

Special Needs PAC questions new state guidelines

by Arlene Surprenant

New state guidelines, which are on the horizon for special needs PACS, have led Special Education Director Cleo Fredette and members of the Special Needs Advisory Council (SNAC) in Wilmington to seek clarification and input from the Wilmington School Committee.

According to Fredette, the Department of Education set up the guidelines with very little input from administrators, school committees, or town PACs. When the guidelines were released and the response was negative, the guidelines went back to the drawing board for another six months, said Fredette.

Fredette explained in a letter to the school superintendent that most of the 69 guidelines are not an issue. However, he added, several of them dealing with the legal status of the PACs and their fundraising activities raise questions that need to be answered.

"We (school and SNAC) have had an easy, informal relationship for the past 12 years. We don't want to undo the good that has been done," Fredette told the Town Crier, making reference to the proposals. He explained that many towns in the Commonwealth rejected the formation of state mandated PACs. To force the issue, the state proposed the stringent guidelines.

At last week's meeting of the school committee, SNAC President James Doucette said he had received "a flood of comments" on the new guidelines. He said his group would like to clarify its legal status to see if members are really special employees of the school committee. He added future fundraising activities will also pose a problem.

Guideline 53 states that the school committee may include PAC money in its local special education budget, something that has not been the case since the SNAC's inception. Guideline 57 states that since the PAC is established by the school committee, it could be considered a public body whose funds are subject to the laws covering grants or gifts to school committees.

Fredette told this paper if the guidelines go into effect, the monies raised by SNAC would go into the town's General Fund unless a non-public body like "Friends of the PAC" is set up to handle the funds. Fredette said SNAC members have expressed reluctance to take that route.

According to the director, SNAC has held two annual fundraisers for the past six years: a fall dance and a pancake breakfast in March. He said the money goes toward scholarships for special needs graduates who are furthering their education or vocational training; the purchase of specialized equipment like a braille printer; and summer camps.

Fredette praised the Wilmington

PAC for its generosity and the financial help members have given his department over the years. He said, in his view, the action being taken by the state is a "Big Brother" type of intervention that will create problems down the road.

The whole issue is expected to be raised again once the guidelines are revised and released.

Wilmington, along with Winchester, has one of the oldest PACs in the region and has approximately 20 members. SNAC meets on the first Monday of each month in the Fourth of July Headquarters.

Weather changes with miles

What a difference a few miles can make, when it comes to rainfall!

Monday night a rainstorm in Middlesex and Essex Counties, Massachusetts was a big one. A lot of streets were flooded. Auto drivers had problems, in getting to work Tuesday morning.

In New Hampshire and Maine it was a snowstorm, with 16 and 18 inches of snow being reported. A casualty of that storm was a three story building, 100 years old, which collapsed. Fortunately there were only three minor injuries.

Tuesday morning the water gauge at the Wilmington Water and Sewer Department had collected 1.58 inches of rainfall, in the 24 hours that ended at 8 a.m.

If the temperature had been just a little colder that would have been a little over 16 inches of snow.

"When it came time to remodel the kitchen, about all we could agree on was that we'd saved up enough money to do it right. He wanted modern. I wanted country. He wanted brown trim. I wanted off-white. Everything worked out in the end, though. I didn't give an inch."

Thank You

I would like to thank the firemen and policemen who came to my house to help me when my husband died.

Hat Day!

Tuesday was "Hat Day" in the Wilmington elementary schools, as the school system marked the halfway point in the school year. Students and teachers were encouraged to wear hats, with the imagination being the only limit. Shown here are some examples of those seen in the Shawsheen and Wildwood schools.

At the Shawsheen, Principal Bob

Coffill wore a "Chill Out" hat, while Assistant Principal Michelle Norton wore a hat with two visors, reading, "I am your leader. Which way are we going?"

Also noteworthy was the "chief cook" hat worn by Mary Schultz in the kitchen of the Wildwood School, as well as the Goofy hat worn by school psychologist Jeff Brenner.

Alumni planning benefit hockey game

With the school athletic program having to live under the town's budget crunch, a Wilmington man is planning to stage a benefit hockey game to raise money for the Wilmington High School hockey team.

Dennis DeMaggio has scheduled a game between Wilmington High School alumni and the Wilmington Fire Department hockey team. The Ristuccia Ice Arena has donated ice time for the game, which will be held on Sunday, Feb. 25 from 3 to 5 p.m.

DeMaggio said he first became aware of the need for support when his son came home with his hockey equipment. The helmet was in such poor condition that DeMaggio scrounged some parts from other helmets to make it usable.

"The point is that we're neglecting the kids, and we don't even realize it," he said. "Try to explain the budget to the kids."

DeMaggio plans to charge participants in the alumni game $20 each. Spectators will pay $2 for adults and $1 for children.

The money raised in the game will be used to buy hockey equipment, which will then be donated to the school. Any money left over will be used to purchase equipment for other WHS teams, especially those which have little support.

Hockey players interested in taking part in the game may sign up at the Spinelli Insurance Agency, 362 Middlesex Ave., North Wilmington, in the Flower Stop building. For more information, contact Gerry O'Reilly 658-3412, Joe McMahon 658-3924 or Dennis DeMaggio 658-5737.

Wilmington forum on strategic plan Feb. 7

In recent months many local residents have seen or heard reference to Wilmington's Strategic Management Plan. Many may not know, however, what the plan is, or understand the process by which it was developed. On Wednesday, February 7, the League of Women Voters of Wilmington will hold a public forum featuring Town Manager "Buzz" Stapczynski, who will describe the strategic management process and discuss Wilmington's need for such a plan. The forum, which begins at 8 p.m. will be held in the public meeting room at Wilmington Memorial Library.

Since 1988, a group of Wilmington officials composed of the town manager, school superintendent, and representatives from the board of selectmen, planning board, school committee and finance committee have been working on a strategic management plan for the town. According to the plan that was developed, "the continuing goals of Wilmington's strategic management process are to establish a clear long term direction for the entire municipal organization, to develop consensus around top priorities, and to shape current decisions terms of long term consequences."

Each year the strategic management committee reevaluates its goals and selects five issues which are likely to be of major importance over the next several years. For 1989 and 1990 the committee has concentrated on 1) affordable housing, 2) community development, 3) financial strength, 4) school facilities and 5) superior performance for town government.

The annual review of the plan includes a presentation to town meeting, summarizing key issues and the committee's strategies for dealing with them. The plan also sets forth specific tasks to be carried out in the short term as each town board or committee begins working toward the goals.

As residents of Wilmington, we all have a stake in our town's future. Please join the Wilmington League of Women Voters on February 7 to hear Town Manager Stapczynski explain the town's plan for the future.

Shirley Winslow

Tewksbury artist featured in two-woman show

Tewksbury artist, Shirley Winslow, will be featured in a two woman show at Depot Square Artists Gallery in Lexington. The show, titled "Insights - Our World in Seasons of Warmth" will run from Jan. 30 through the month of February.

Winslow has chosen New England and its people as the subjects of her evocative and lyrical watercolors and pastels. Her landscapes fill us with remembered warmth, familiar New England scenes bathed in sunlight. Her vibrant figures come alive on the paper. The artist stops time and stills action so we can enter into each scene. These paintings stir our memories of places we've been and people we've seen; they portray timeless moments familiar to all of us.

Winslow is a member of the Copley Society of Boston, Concord

Art Association, the Chelmsford Art Society, and an Associate member of the Brush With History Gallery in Lowell. She has exhibited in regional and national juried shows, including the prestigious Salmagundi Club in New York City.

Lexington artist, Penelope Hart, will exhibit her realistic colored pencil drawings. Her delicate and detailed work is based on the patterns and shapes of objects such as shells, vegetables, and sea creatures.

The Depot Square Artists Gallery is located downstairs at 1837 Massachusetts Avenue, Lexington. The show will be open 10 to 5 Tuesday through Saturday and 1-4 Sundays. A reception will be held Sunday, February 4 from 1 to 4. In the event of snow, the reception will be held on February 11, 1 to 4. The public is welcome to attend.

Hearing on herbicides

A public hearing by the state pesticide board, to discuss rights of way management regulations, is planned for Saturday, February 6, in the second floor conference room of the Andover Town Hall. The hearing will begin at 7 p.m.

Tewksbury Public Health Director Tom Carbone said the hearing will discuss the use of herbicides to clear plant growth from power lines and railroad beds, among other uses. He said that regulations regarding the use of toxic materials, for rights-of-way management have changed, and it is now the duty of the herbicide sprayer to locate any private wells in the area.

Earlier, the town was required to located any nearby wells, he said. The pesticide board is under the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture.

Body analysis at Regional Health Center

To help residents shape up for a new year Nutrition Services of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington has scheduled a computerized body composition analysis for Wednesday, Feb. 7 from 5 to 9 p.m. by appointment. This painless examination will measure actual amount of body fat, lean muscle and body water.

"Lean muscle is the furnace of the body. That's where calories are burned," according to Julie Daly, R.D. nutritionist.

"Maintaining muscle mass while losing body fat is the goal of all fitness and weight loss programs. Monitoring body composition helps assure that lost weight is fat and not muscle."

Victims of frequent weight loss and regain cycles often find their metabolic rate lowered due to losses in lean muscle. Athletes who need to preserve muscle also find the computerized body composition date a useful part of their fitness routine. For the average 40 year old woman a normal body fat is 27 percent while for a 40 year old man it is 19 percent.

Trained nutritionists use the BIAC bio-impedance measurement to assess body composition. In less than five minutes a two page individualized report is printed. The nutritionist then interprets the findings with each client on an individual basis.

For more information and to pre-register for an appointment, call 508-657-3910, ext. 623.

Water Commissioners discuss aquifer by-law

This beagle was found on Jan. 25 at the Colonial Park Mall.

Dog report

The Wilmington dog officer is presently holding the following dogs. Dogs picked up in Wilmington are kept at the Central Animal Hospital in Stoneham.

Male shepherd-collie mix, young, black and tan, picked up Dec. 29 at 270 Burlington Ave. This dog was adopted last week, but returned. If you called for him, call again.

Male beagle, picked up Jan. 25 at Farmer & The Del.

Dogs held for ten days are available for adoption. Due to limited budgets and space, it is difficult to keep dogs longer than the minimum ten days. Therefore adoptions are now more important than ever, to prevent dogs having to be euthanized.

The animal control officer may be contacted for adoptions by calling 658-7845. For dog complaints, contact the Wilmington Police Department on its business line, 658-5071.

The news is "good" on the Aquifer Front in Wilmington.

For a long time the ladies of the League of Women Voters have been, together with other persons speaking up for an "Aquifer Protection" bylaw in the town. An aquifer is an underground supply of water, particularly drinking water. It can be easily destroyed by the careless disposition of sewage, or by chemicals, spilled gasoline or many other substances.

To those who sought protection the water commissioners have said, in effect: "We are working on it."

That reply made some persons impatient. For them it was relatively simple - just vote a bylaw. Some got statements from state officials which seemed to say exactly that.

The water commissioners had an agreement with the environmental firm known as IEP. That firm would do the work.

Four representatives of IEP appeared at the meeting of the water commissioners on January 25. Two environmentalists and two attorneys had big maps of Wilmington, showing the land beneath the town.

Joe Salvetti and Bill Thompson had compiled maps showing the underground of Wilmington, the stratified drift deposits of gravel and sand, and the till, hard rock etc. They had drilled holes in 15 places in Wilmington to delineate the soil characteristics, and the underwater flow.

A major aquifer exists across Wilmington, from near Silver Lake and following Lubbers Brook, to east Wilmington and the Ipswich River. It was marked off with a blue crayon, meaning it was 50 or more feet thick. Nearby was a "recharge system" marked off with a lighter blue.

The town wells were marked off with an orange spot, and around those spots for 400 feet was a "Zone 1" protection area. The recharge areas were in "Zone 2," and the aquifers in "Zone 3."

Other aquifers were shown, in both North and South Wilmington but they were not as large.

The commissioners were told that a working model would be constructed for the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and they would run it for 180 days. DEP also wants to have a pump test on one of the wells for a 180 day period. It also wants to test other wells for several days.

Attorneys Chris Clark and Bob White said that in about two and a half months, the DEP would be having new regulations. Clark had been developing a list, showing what is being done. "It makes sense to put these things in place now," he said.

Chairman Art Smith agreed. "It makes sense to strike while the iron is hot" he said. The people of Wilmington want an aquifer bylaw, he added.

White discussed a potential for sewer contamination in the industrial part of Wilmington. Commissioner Noel Baretta related how a lot of industrial sewers are in Wilmington without cost to the town. Smith added that "if we can force an industry to hook up, we will!"

He wants to be certain that water rights are protected.

It is important, he said, that the aquifer bylaw, when it is submitted to the town meeting, be correct in every detail. No amendments can be voted, from the town meeting floor.

Any such amendment causes the DEP to reject the bylaw.

Wilmington senior topics

The Council on Aging meeting will be held in the function room of the Buzzell Senior center next Monday, February 5. It would be wise for all of us to be present at this meeting. The cuts made in our budget will be told to those present. These cuts will drastically effect all of us. Also at the meeting a $50 Lucci food gift certificate donated to the seniors through the generosity of the Lions' Club and a $50 Demoulas food gift certificate generously donated to the seniors by the Rotary Club will be raffled off.

Raffle tickets

The bowls where the raffle tickets are put are placed on the counter throughout the month. If you could use one of these food certificates to help you stretch your monthly income, you better get a ticket in the bowls before next Monday. I have put tickets in for those seniors I know of who are confined to their home. If you wish to know if I have put your name in call me at the center. We know many of our seniors could certainly use a food certificate with the price of every necessity of life climbing at a very rapid rate. We want everyone to have a chance to win one.

Fuel program

I have been receiving many calls from seniors on the fuel program who have used up all their allotment. I called the Community Teamwork Inc. in Lowell. I was told they have petitioned the Federal Government for additional money. They do not expect to receive all that they are asking. But whatever they receive will be distributed on most needy basis

Wilmington seniors Week of February 5

Monday: Chilled fruit, chicken patti with tomato and lettuce on a roll, seasoned green beans, Jello with topping and milk.

Tuesday: Egg MacMuffin (ham patti, egg and cheese on an English muffin), seasoned vegetable, chilled juice, dessert and milk.

Wednesday: Spaghetti and meatballs, tossed garden salad, French bread and butter, apple crisp and milk.

Thursday: Chicken nuggets, whipped potato, seasoned mixed vegetables, brownies and milk.

Friday: Fish dinner, fluffy rice, seasoned green beans, bread and butter, ice cream and milk.

first. The allotment will only be for 100 gals of oil. Those seniors who have used up all their allotment should contact the "Good Neighbor Energy Fund." You may be able to get a little help. This fund was established by several major utility companies to help low income elders who did not meet the Federal or State levels under the Fuel Assistance program. To receive help through the Good Neighbor Energy Fund a household of one can have an income level no higher than $11,000. And a household of two no higher than $14,000. The assistance through this program will only be a one time delivery of $200 worth of oil. For more information on this program call the Salvation Army main headquarters, 617-542-5420 or their free toll number 1-800-334-3047.

When I receive information on the Community Teamwork Inc. additional funds it will be in this column.

Respite Care

Many of our seniors are confined to their homes through disability or advanced age living alone with no transportation. We have a Respite Care Servisor. She is available to shop for you. Take you to medical appointments if you have no family close to take you or if the appointment is during the day and you cannot postpone it to a Saturday or the evening. She can set up a medicine calendar for seniors with failing eyesight or getting very forgetful. Call the Center, 657-7595 or 658-2258 if you are in the above category and need help.

Medex rates

Seniors with Medex policies should have received the new Medex rates. If you have not they are as follows: The quarterly rate for standard is $214.11, Medex 2 is $171.36, Medex 3 is $257.85 and a new policy Medex 4 is $193.32. Blue Cross, states if the policy you are now carrying is to expensive, you can take a lower one. Or you can compare their monthly rates with other supplemental policy carriers. Some of them they have listed Mutual of Omaha, Combined Ins. Company of America and AARP. Comparable prices are:

Medex 2, 65 to 80+, $57.12.
Mutual, 65-69, $44.37, 70-74, $54.08, 75-79, $59.06, 80+, $64.55.

Cica, 65-69, $67.25; 70-74, $74.49; 75-79, $86.24, 80+, $86.24.

AARP, 65 to 80+, $25.95.
Medex 3, 65 to 80+, $85.95.

Mutual, 65 to 69, $56.56, 70-74, $62.65, 75-79, $72.54.
Cica, 65-69, $50.56, 70-74, $56.39, 75-79, $65.29.

AARP, 65 to 80+, $49.25.

Mutual $56.56 and $50.56 figures are for non smokers and AARP figures will increase in July. Mutual and CICA require exams before issuing their policies. If you would like to take an HMO make sure you check them out. Most hospitals that carry HMO's will only let you be treated by their doctors and use their hospital. That is alright if the hospital is equipped to handle all kinds of emergencies. And some of the HMO's can be more expensive than one of the above. Ask a lot of questions before you make up your mind.

TMHS clinches track titles

The Tewksbury High School boys' and girls' indoor track teams clinched their first-ever Small School titles in the Merrimack Valley Conference with a pair of wins Monday afternoon at the Methuen Field House.

Coach Bill Piscione's boys topped Lawrence, 63-23 behind some solid efforts that included a first place finish by senior captain Rob Lombardi in the 50. Rob's winning time was 5.6 and came on the heels of his 34.3 first place finish in Sunday's Northern Area Meet at Beverly High School.

Piscione's girls also came home with not just one, but two titles, having won the Northern Area Meet for the first time before topping Wilmington, 57-29 at Methuen Monday to clinch the Small School title in the MVC with an overall 7-0-0 mark.

Five TMHS girls won their events, and they included Tammi Brooks (two mile), Lori Sutherland (50), Debra Takach (300), Jessica Hupper (high jump) and Kim Farrand (1000).

The Wilmington winners were Suzy Walsh (600), Erin McKenna (mile), Jenna Powers (shot put) and Jackie Lutz (hurdles).

The quartet of Tracey Greer, Donna Mickle, Susan McNamara and Kristina Pryzjenski continue to pace the much improved Wilmington High School gymnastics team. Last week the talented quartet led the Wildcats to a 111-95.5 victory over Arlington.

Both the Tewksbury and Wilmington High School boys' basketball squads are barely surviving in the race for the final Eastern Mass. Tournament berth. Both teams are chasing Dracut for second place in the Small School Division.

The Redmen (6-9 overall) have key games remaining with Chelmsford, Dracut, Andover and Wilmington, while the Wildcats (5-8 overall) must face Billerica, Methuen, Central Catholic, Tewksbury, Maitland and Malden Catholic. It should be an interesting stretch drive for both teams.

Speaking of stretch drives, coach Don Ciampa's TMHS hockey squad (10-4-0 overall) will dive into a tough final march after relative breathers this week against Methuen and Andover.

The Redmen have had trouble against the iron of the Large School Division and must face Chelmsford and Central Catholic sandwiched around much-improved Small School opponent Dracut.

The Redmen wrap up the regular season and will probably have clinched their sixth consecutive Small School title before playing at Wilmington February 17.

The most improved area team award and the coach of the year honors should go to the Tewksbury High School girls' basketball squad and first-year coach Doug Anderson. Friday night the TMHS girls threw a real scare into Small School kingpin Methuen before finally falling, 52-48.

The loss dropped the TMHS record to 9-5 on the season, but the team is tourney-bound and back to playing pressure defense and fastbreak basketball.

It also doesn't hurt that senior Joanne McNamara has provided the team with instant offense, finishing with 23 points in Friday night's tough loss to Methuen.

All tied up

Teams will decide bragging rights

The Wilmington Recreation Men's Basketball League begins its final leg of the season this week, and with every team having played each other twice, the rubber game and bragging rights will take place over the next two weeks.

Only one game separates the top three clubs, and five of the six teams are still in the running for playoff positions.

J's Deli, despite some recent rough losses, is still playing well and will have to come up with some key wins to solidify a playoff position in the next two weeks.

However, with the likes of scorers Chris Arciero, Dave Spurr and Dan Bamberg and rebounders Mike Clark, Bob LaVita and Frank Riley, the Delimen should pose some interesting problems for the other contenders.

One of the keys down the stretch may be the shooting of outside threats Barry Cahill and Chuch Osgood in driving J's to the playoffs.

Another team fighting for the playoffs is Century 21. Behind the scoring of Kim Carpenter, Tom Stewart and Bob Stewart, Century is never out of a game.

Add to that the experience that players like Jimmy Buck, Charlie Huse and Mike Winn bring to the game, Century 21 may yet find itself in contention.

Cambridge nips Squirt A's

The Wilmington Squirt A's were defeated on Sunday by Cambridge, 3-1.

The only goal for Wilmington went to Lee Trimarchi. Good playmaking should be credited to Danny Abbott, Matt Holmes and David Santini.

It should also be noted that another fine goaltending job was turned in by Jeff Farese.

A 4-3 win over Andover gave the Pee Wees their second straight win.

Goal scorers were Matt Callendrello with two, Mike Barry and Mike Giordano with one apiece.

Playing a great game on defense was Steve Walsh. Another great performance by goaltenders Jeff Morin and Chris O'Rourke.

Mite Reds split pair

Wilmington's Mite Red team recently split back to back games against Triton in Valley League action.

The first contest saw Triton jump out to a two goal lead and hold on for a 2-1 victory.

Scoring the lone goal for Wilmington was Derek Mazza.

In the second game it was a different story as Wilmington dominated Triton, 4-1.

Wilmington was led by the fine goaltending of Justin Vallas and the three goal performance of T.J.Flynn.

Adding the fourth goal for the Mite Red team was Derek Mazza on a power play, with a nice assist from Joey Berian.

Turning in fine defensive efforts for Wilmington were Craig Irwin, Danny Fogg and Michael Corcoran, while the offensive zone of Triton was dominated by forwards Kevin Carroll, Shawn Ryan and Matt Gillis.

Intramural squad second

Wilmington's White Intramural hockey squad is in second place after a win over Medford Sunday.

Outdoors column

Enjoying the (worst) weather

by Bill Conlon

Who are these guys?

Good weather will bring all sorts of people onto the ice. On a warm, clear day you can expect to see kids on skates, 2-year-olds being towed along on sleds, folks with Frisbees and a few stray dogs on the ice. It can get downright crowded on this part-time town common.

In normal wintery weather you'll still see a few people, plus the ever-present ice fishing squad, and the same stray dogs.

But on REAL bad days, in sleet storms and sub-zero weather, when even the dogs won't come out onto the ice, you will still see a handful of ice fishermen, toughing it out.

Meet the Diehards, a strange and hardy fraternity within the already tough corps of ice fishermen.

There is no such thing as weather to the Diehards. They believe that actual cold begins with a minus sign and doesn't get serious until there are two digits involved. They carry compasses, in case of a "whiteout" snowstorm, and some carry spikes to haul themselves out in case they fall through the ice.

It's weird to stand in a howling blizzard, in near-arctic conditions as your gear slowly disappears under the drifting, blowing snow, only to see some guy sitting nearby in a lawnchair, calmly reading a book.

A few Sundays ago, an ice fishing derby on Lake Mascuppic started as a normal winter day, but by 10 a.m. it was a howling blizzard that left a thick coating of snow on everything in sight. Some 192 anglers defied the weather forecasters and signed up to fish, but at day's end only 40 or so Diehards were still out on the ice. Even the dogs stayed home that day, but not the Diehards.

Gordie Lutz of Tewksbury, and Pete Rinaldi of Wilmington, both seasoned Diehards, met on the lake in the midst of the storm and began telling stories about the worst-ever conditions they had ice fished in. It seemed odd to huddle in a blizzard and talk about real bad weather, but that's what we did.

Gordie told of another blizzard day, in which the snow on top of the ice had melted to slush the previous day, then crusted over and a new storm blew in, leaving a double-ice layer. He said his best fish that day had slipped into the water between the two ice layers, and he called for help to retrieve his prize. Other anglers came over to stomp around in the slush, looking for his errant fish, which Gordie said had gotten some 40 feet from the hole before being recaptured.

Pete spoke of a derby some four years ago, in which a layer of thick snow on top of the ice had melted the day before, then refroze. The surface was crunchy ice, with deep slush underneath. The water came up past your ankles, he said, but the all-day rain didn't help. Tough.

Gordie also spoke of a derby held on Ames Pond, Tewksbury, when a screaming wind came up around 8 a.m., and never quit. Lawn chairs and Coleman stoves went skittering over the glassy-smooth ice, and the wind was so strong that it hauled tip-ups out of their holes and sent them flying. Gordie said he was hit by a piece of flying cardboard, and almost knocked unconscious. The temperature that day was only five degrees, giving teeth to the wind. It was rough, and only the Diehards were left at the end of the day.

For real cold, Gordie spoke of an ice fishing derby he himself ran on Ames Pond, to benefit Tewksbury Youth Center. It was below zero that day, with a strong wind. Such cold is a survival challenge even to Diehards, but they'd never admit to any weather being so bad that ice fishing was impossible. Nah!

My favorite way to tell when the air is below zero is when ice forms on my beard and mustache, until I look like an Arctic explorer. Very cold is when your spit bounces.

I fondly remember an ice fishing derby on Long Pond in Tyngsboro a few years back, in which pea-soup fog rolled in at 9 a.m. The gray ice blended with the warm gray air, and the fog was so incredibly thick you couldn't see 100 feet, even an object as large as a truck. Since that day a compass has become standard ice fishing gear. We couldn't even see the near shore that day, let alone the far one, and one guy walked by us three times in ten minutes, going in the same direction every time. Weird.

Or last year, in which the ice was so thin that hardly any tournaments were held. We fished on ice barely three inches thick at times, but fish we did. Scary.

These are the stories told by the Diehards, tales of unbelievable cold and memorable storms, of January rains and February ice storms, all as seen from the belly of the beast. No matter how bad the weather will be, somebody will still be fishing until the last minute of the derby.

Only the Diehards.

Those same Diehards will be out there in the next storm as well, and in subzero cold, and blizzards, and rain, and fog, and whiteouts, sitting in a lawnchair, reading a book.

Why? Who knows? Maybe it's the stories they get to tell afterwards.

--- Tackle Box ---

Lots of good stuff happening in the next few weeks, but first here's the results of Sunday's derby on Lake Attitash in Amesbury, run by the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers.

The lake didn't give up any of its famous pike, and the winner of the derby, Stan Kulis of Dracut, earned his $300 top prize on a pickerel that weighed 3-pound, one-half ounce. Second place went to Gus Lambert of North Reading for a 3-pound bass; third place was given to Ron Buturlia of Bradford for a 2-8 bass; Mike Demmons of Reading landed fourth on a 2-6 bass; Steve Hart of nearby Amesbury took fifth for a 2-3 bass; Lowell's Eddie Thibault held onto sixth place with a 2-1 pickerel. (Ed is a real Diehard. He fell through a soft spot in the ice, but had a change of clothes in his car and went back out again after changing. Wow.) Seventh went to Dracut's Lyle Ransom for an even 2-pound pickerel; Russ Buturlia of Groveland took eighth place for a 1-pound, 13.5-ounce bass that was a half ounce over the bass taken by Mike Frost of Stoneham, in ninth; and last place went to John Candage of Merrimack, for a 1-13 pickerel that lost on length. Club member Bob Burns of Lowell earned $100 for the biggest fish caught by a club member, though the bass wasn't big enough to place on the board. So?

The big Meredith N.H. Rotary - Pepsi Derby starts on Saturday and ends Sunday, Feb. 3 & 4. Prizes go to the biggest fish, but the cash door prizes just for signing up aren't bad at all.

Also this weekend is the Eastern Fishing & Outdoor Exposition at the Centrum in Worcester, from Jan. 31 to Feb. 4. Hours are 4-10 on Wednesday; 2-10 on Thursday and Friday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday; and 10:30 to 6:30 on Sunday. Kids under 12 pay $3 to get in, and adult admission is $6. Plan to spend a few hours to see all the sights -- this is a biggie.

Near as I can tell, there are no local derbies this weekend, as most organizers don't want to compete with the New Hampshire spectacle.

However, on Saturday, Feb. 10, there will be an ice fishing derby on Nutting Lake, Billerica, held by the new D&M Bass Supply, located on the Middlesex Turnpike. Entry fee is $10 each, and prize money will be 85 percent of the admission take, paid for the five heaviest fish taken. This is D&M's first derby, and they don't know what to expect. Fishing hours are 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Long day on the ice.

On Sunday, Feb. 11, look for the second and final ice derby of 1990 by the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers, this time on Lake Mascuppic, on the Dracut-Tyngsboro line. Same rules of 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. SHARP, same $10 entry fee, and an power auger will be raffled off from the names of those who entered both derbies.

The third and final derby by the Merrimack Valley Bass Masters is planned for Feb. 18 on Mascuppic, but pray for cold until then, to keep the ice intact.

Also on Feb. 18 is a 3-D archery shoot at Tewksbury Rod & Gun, on Chandler Street. The course has 30 life-sized foam animal targets, but the ranges are NOT marked. You'll need a Hunter's Eye for the range to pull down any prizes.

Classic champ

Wilmington's Lisa Crowley is the 1990 Buckeye Classic All-Around Champion after the recent gymnastics competition in Columbus, Ohio.

Crowley champion

Lisa Crowley, a fifth grade student at the Woburn Street School in Wilmington, is the 1990 Buckeye Classic All-Around Champion.

The gymnastic competition, held in Columbus, Ohio presented 1,100 gymnasts from the USA, Canada and England. Lisa was part of the level eight all-star division where she placed in first place on the balance beams and an impressive fourth place on the floor exercises.

The following weekend, Lisa travelled to Maryland for the 1990 Maryland Classic, held at College Park, the University of Maryland. Here Lisa was among 120 gymnasts at her level, where she successfully won a sixth place medal in vaulting and received for her most spectacular floor score yet, an 8.95. She performed with such determination to stay on top that it earned her a respectable 13th place in this field of advanced level eights from the east coast and Canada.

Lisa competes in the United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF), an organization that governs gymnastics in America. The USGF directs levels of competition that range from Level One through 10 to Elite.

Recently, Lisa also qualified with a score that gives her eligibility to advance to Level Nine and qualifies her for Level Eight State Championships in April. Lisa, with this goal in mind, continues to train four or five days a week, three hours a day along with dance classes. She is still able to remain an honor student at school because of her determination to succeed. Lisa is a member of Northeast Gymnastics Center in Wilmington.

Waiting for the pass

Wilmington senior Annmarie Andersen (23) waits for a pass in the low post in MVC action. Andersen scored 15 points, Allison Curtin 13 and Gina Martiniello eight in a tough 53-46 loss to Chelmsford last week. (Rick Cooke photo).

Soccer referee course

The Mass. Youth Soccer Assoc. (MYSA) will be sponsoring a 12 hour soccer referee course leading to a final exam and certification. The course fee of $20.00 can be refunded after completion of referee assignments.

The next course is at St. John The Evangelist School in Beverly Friday, Feb. 2 from 7 to 10 p.m. and Sat., Feb. 3 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Contact Jerry Morin at 745-8019.

The final course will be held at the Middle School in Littleton on Fri., March 2 from 7 to 10 p.m. and Sat., March 3 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Contact George Gregg at 597-6681.

A certification exam will follow each course. Referees are in short supply and they are paid for refereeing travel soccer games.

Sixth grade teacher Miss Krainski organized a project in which children from pre-school, kindergarten, resource rooms and grades first through sixth made computer generated cards, signs, and banners. These items were photocopied and distributed to the classes for the students to color in. The goal of the project was to develop a caring interest for others. The color in items were delivered personally by Miss Krainski to the New England Memorial Hospital, the Arnold Nursing Home in Stoneham and to St. Patrick's Church in Stoneham. The items were warmly received by all.

The third grade students are currently working on a State of the Week program. Research on each state is done by the student groups during free time or recesses. Such things as state flag, flower, bird, an outline map of the individual state, products, famous citizens past and present are among the topics covered.

This information is posted on a giant outline map of the U.S. in the main corridor.

The first grades have been busy with special project including writing and illustrating book and poems, performing plays and choral readings, and setting up learning center activities in the classroom.

The art of arranging flowers for decoration within the home dates back to ancient China. Buddhist monks of the time used to gather up flowers whose stems had been broken during storms. The monks then placed the flowers, in vessels of water in an attempt to prolong their lives. The eternal nature of this practice has allowed little to change up to the present time. Then, as now, it is recognized that water plays a primary role in cut flower preservation. With this in mind, arrangers should take care to recut the stems under water. This will allow them to immediately draw up life-preserving moisture. Stems that are cut out of water take air into their veins which will hinder water absorption. Arrangers will want to do all that they can to allow for the fullest appreciation of their blooms.

On a sunny winter day you can do some pruning, even though your flowering shrubs are still dormant. If you need advice about landscaping or getting your plants ready to put outside in the spring, come to A&M NURSERY AND FLORIST, 911 East Street in Tewksbury. We're convenient to downtown and route 93. We are a full service landscape designer, garden center and supplier of fresh cut flowers for every occasion. We enjoy answering your questions about gardening, indoors or out. Call us at 851-4472.

HINT: By removing the outer withered petals of a flower, the bloom's life can be extended.

Scouting

'A positive experience'

STONEHAM - For Christopher Melin, the newest District Executive at the Minuteman Council, the scouting program should be a "positive experience" for all youngsters.

In today's world, Melin sees the scouting movement as a way to keep youngsters "away from substance abuse and to teach them positive, uplifting values."

A native of Illinois, Melin's district encompasses Lexington, Concord, Waltham, Hanscom Air Force Base, Watertown, Carlisle and Lincoln.

What he does for his district, he said, "is to oversee the scouting activities for all of the different communities. I do the administrative work as far as seeing that all of the units are registered when they want to file a tour permit to go out and do some activity. I have to sign all of the adult applications that come through. I raise funds for the area and recruit adult leaders."

Melin noted that there were approximately 50 scouting units in his district (and that includes Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers) made up of approximately several hundred youngsters.

According to Melin, the basic mission of scouting hasn't really changed. "It should provide," he said, "a quality recreational, education, social program. It should teach good moral values and give the youngsters a positive alternative to those activities that will lead them into destructive and harmful activities."

One activity that remains a mainstay of scouting, he emphasized, "is camping. This summer I'll be highly involved with the summer camp and I think that's something that people tend to forget these days. Camping is still a positive experience and always will be."

FM TALK: Our far-flung correspondent is, we are told, somewhere up north, attempting to polish his skiing techniques. We'll have to wait for the results. Meanwhile, here is another edition of off-beat tidbits on American history to keep you readers busy:

According to Charles S. Olcott, author of "The Life of William McKinley," McKinley once admitted that he frequently spoke to God for advice on political matters. In 1899, for example, McKinley told a group of Methodist clergymen that he had spent many nights pacing the floors of the white house while wrestling with the issue of whether to annex the Philippines. McKinley told the clergymen that he finally asked God to tell him what to do, and, notes Olcott in his book God heard McKinley's plea and advised him to accept the Philippines as a gift from heaven.

In "Our Times," by Mark Sullivan, it is revealed that President McKinley was assassinated following a bizarre circumstance. Leon Czolgosz, who killed President McKinley on September 6, 1901, in Buffalo, New York, walked into a Chicago tailor shop, which was owned by his friend, just days before the assassination took place. Czolgosz told his friend that he wanted to kill a priest to receive attention from the public and the press. His friend indicated that killing a priest would not bring Czolgosz much attention. Killing a president would bring him international notoriety. Czolgosz reconsidered his choice of target, then travelled to Buffalo where he carried out his mad and murderous deed. Czolgosz's desire to achieve notoriety was short-lived, however, on October 23, he was electrocuted for the murder of William McKinley.

There is another bizarre twist to the assassination of President McKinley, and it is explored in a book entitled "The Good Years," which was written by Walter Lord. In his book, Lord notes that McKinley's secretary, a man by the name of George B. Cortelyou, had a premonition that McKinley

About the towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

READING - Reading Public Library reference librarian Doreen Bolnick's article "Audiocassette Repair: Solving Your Own Audiocassette Problems with Some Simple Tools and Perseverance" in the national Library Journal has earned her a request for a reprint in the Listening Library - and $500 worth of books on audiocassette for Reading.

The popular audiocassettes had recently been eliminated from the library budget because of the town's fiscal constraints.

Copies of Bolnick's article, which "enables anyone to salvage damaged cassettes which formerly would have been discarded," are available free at the library.

WILMINGTON - Wilmington's Patricia Gagnon, Ph.D. and CCT, has recently been elected president of the New England chapter of the American Society of Travel Agents.

With more than 21,000 members in 128 countries, ASTA is the largest national travel trade association.

During the past decade, Gagnon has traveled to 51 countries and as vice president of American Traveler, Inc. is responsible for the daily management of a $10 million plus retail and corporate fund agency.

STONEHAM - In conjunction with the Stoneham Historical Society and a Massachusetts Arts Council grant, Continental Cable recently produced a special on the origins of Stoneham's town seal, with a focus on the town's shoe-manufacturing heritage.

The historical society plans to use the documentary as a teaching tool in the schools.

Brian Corbett, Kathy Vallere and Stoneham's Joanne Harriman collaborated on the project.

NORTH READING - North Reading's Cultural Co-op Shoppe at the Old Town Hall is closing today to make way for the long-awaited new library renovations.

LYNNFIELD - Lynnfield's Jeffrey Gordon knows his moves and movies.

The owner of Lynn's Limousine Center, he provided five cars for the movie "Second Sight"; did some Mercedes work for "Witches of Eastwick"; and supplied the limo for the first episode of "Spenser: For Hire."

To advertise in the movie industry through "Second Sight" and the Massachusetts Film Bureau's film guide, he slashed the price of his work to $40,000 - and screen credits.

At the moment, he's toying with the idea of starting a limo service with "crazy" cars.

SENIOR CENTER - Reading's Fix-It volunteers would like to be able to offer more services to their fellow seniors.

They're looking for a variable-speed electric drill plus drill bits and small metal tips, and are ready to welcome more volunteers and articles needing repair. For more info, call 942-0500, Ext. 62.

MOVIE REVIEWS Rochelle Flynn

"Tremors" "Camille Claudel"

"Tremors" Starring Kevin Bacon, Fred Ward. Directed by Ron Underwood. Written and produced by S.S. Wilson and Brent Maddock. Rated PG-13.

It's got a B movie plot. It's got a B movie setting. It's got its share of B movie dialogue. But "Tremors" has the heart of a class A feature film.

Okay, maybe a creature feature class A film, but you get the idea. This movie does more than pay homage to the schlocky monster movies of the Fifties. It does more than send them up. Instead, it takes all those dumb flicks and cannibalizes their better aspects, paring away (most of) the stupidity for which those outer space-blob-monster movies were famous.

The setting is Perfection, Nevada. Population: 14. Excitement: 0. It's the last place you'd expect to run smack up against giant earthworm critters with voracious appetites, grabbing tentacles and the capacity to move at fantastic speeds under the desert floor. It's certainly the last place on earth Val and Earl ever thought they'd get a chance to play at being heroes. But, of course, no one ever thought that the increased seismic activity in the area was caused by anything really earth shattering.

Valentine McKee (Kevin Bacon) and Earl Basset (Fred Ward) are the town's handymen. They haul lumber, pick up garbage and do all manner of odd jobs to keep themselves in the manner to which they've become accustomed. A style which owes a lot of Tobacco Road. Well, Val and Earl, good 'ol boys both, decide they've had enough of the hard scramble life in Perfection and load up their truck. Only they decide to leave one day too late. Seems the boys can't get out of town.

Don't be misled by the light, campy tone of the film up to this point, because director Ron Underwood skillfully balances that campiness with a few good, rollicking shocks. This is, after all, a scary movie. It flows along as smoothly as it does because the people delivering the gallows humor come across as genuine.

Actually, the monsters are as believable, and seemingly real, as the frightened inhabitants of Perfection.

First of all, the monsters have brains. Instead of just running on instinct, they can figure things out. Makes for much more interesting combat. Secondly, the young people in this movie aren't the usual dim-wits we see in flicks. You know the type, always willing to go look for that mass murderer who was last seen clutching a bloody ax. No, these people are scared. And cunning. Just not as cunning as the monsters they've dubbed "grabboids."

While Ward and Bacon are endearing as the good-hearted but fumbling jacks-of-all-trades, it is Michael Gross and Reba McEntire who really round out the film as gun-toting survivalists ready for anything, even subterranean carnivores who can devour whole trucks in a single sitting. These two have finally found reaffirmation for their wacko lifestyle and take to hunting the odoriferous creatures below their feet as if they'd been waiting their whole life for the chance. But Underwood never takes a cheap shot, this couple may be funny, but they're also competent.

The filmmakers seem to have sunk most of their budget into the monsters and special effects. Easy to do, as the story is set in the desert and costumes consist of jeans and boots. Good choice for many reasons. The minimalist setting plays up that old low-budget B movie concept without sacrificing visuals. The monsters, from their slug-like bodies to fang-laden, slime-dripping tentacles, look appropriately disgusting and nothing like the gray latex puppets we know they are.

So, while this flick isn't going to make you laugh/make you cry/change your life, it is a great foil for all those serious films around these days. There is even an underscore of romance, as Val discovers that the geeky-looking grad student (Finn Carter) studying seismic activity in the area is okay after all, even if she's not a leggy blonde. Seems to be enough that she's actually smart and capable and helps them outwit the creatures. Whoa! Horror flicks really are changing!

As for the monsters, we're never actually told where they come from. At one point the characters try to figure it out. Outer space? A nuclear waste dump? Here all along? Maybe the death star Hollywood?

Paris. Rated R. Playing at the Coolidge Corner Theatre. French, with subtitles.

"Mystery Train" Starring Youki Kudoh, Masatoshi Nagase, Nicoletta Braschi, Joe Strummer. Directed and written by Jim Jarmusch. Produced by Jim Stark. Rated R.

Art flick. Has kind of a dry sound to it. Tends to frighten people away. But there are a couple of unusual films making the rounds that each offer a refreshing, startling change of pace, even if both are a little slow moving.

"Camille Claudel" is the story of deception, victimization and genius. Director Bruno Nuytten has given the film a lush visual presence. As would be expected of the man who won a British Academy Award for his cinematography in "Jean de Florette" and "Manon of the Spring." The sunny scenes of the French countryside are much like Impressionist paintings, while shadow and light enhance the mood of artistic torment experienced by Claudel.

Actress Isabelle Adjani, who first developed this project, brings fire to the role of the sculptress who slowly went insane. With her porcelain-like skin and fragile would be killed during his visit to Buffalo. Cortelyou pleaded with McKinley not to travel to Buffalo, but the president insisted on making the trip. While in Buffalo, Cortelyou continued to feel uneasy about the president's schedule, realizing that much of the visit left him wide open to the public. Cortelyou was so worried about one particular speaking engagement that he secretly cancelled it. McKinley learned of the cancellation, and decided to make the appearance anyway. McKinley proceeded to the Temple of Music, where he shook hands with approximately forty-five people per minute. After six or seven minutes, Cortelyou became anxious again and ordered that the doors to the temple be closed. One of the last people to be admitted to the temple was Leon Czolgosz. His right hand was banded to conceal a handgun. He approached McKinley and fired two shots. One struck a button on the president's jacket, the other penetrated his abdomen. The president died shortly thereafter, and Czolgosz had attained his brief moment of notoriety that he so maniacally sought.

We may frequently bemoan the fact that automobiles are a constant threat to the air we breathe, but consider this: according to Otto L. author of "The Good Old Days: They Were Terrible," Bettmann, think of what our air would smell like if the automobile hadn't been invented. At the turn of the century, three million horses inhabited urban America. Each one of them contributed twenty to twenty-five pounds of manure each day. In New York City alone, approximately ten million pounds of manure piled up each year. Fifteen thousand horses alone would have covered an acre of soil with a heap 175 feet high. Then came along the automobile, and the fear of our cities being buried under the horse dung disappeared. Thank goodness for modern inventions!

appearance, Adjani is nothing less than startling as her character descends from the civilized schoolgirl into the uncompromising, primitive troublemaker who died in an insane asylum in 1943.

In 1880, Claudel became Auguste Rodin's first female apprentice, an inspiration for his work and a contributor to some of the sculptor's greatest pieces. The two were passionate in their work and passionate for one another. Yet it was Rodin who received acknowledgement, while Claudel saw her creativity sucked dry by a man who would not marry her and would not give her artistic independence.

As Claudel's work became more emotional, her own mental state became more shaky. Perhaps her insanity was unavoidable, but the film makes a strong case for her victimization. Certainly it was helped along by a destructive affair with a powerful man who seemed capable of only taking from her. Then there was a rigid society unable to accept a female artist in the same terms as a man.

Another to bear the culpability for Claudel's downfall was her much-adored brother Paul (Laurent Grevill). A diplomat and poet, he took up Catholicism as an adult and planted himself in a swamp of moral righteousness from which he judged his sister and found her lacking. His rejection did as much to destroy Claudel as Rodin's, although her brother blamed only the famous sculptor.

Cinematically, the film suffers from a draggy pace. Adjani's emotional range, the depth of the story, Gerard Depardieu's powerful, magnetic performance as Rodin should have made this a film to die for. In fact, the French awarded it five Cesars last year. But "Camille" runs for two-and-a-half hours and begins to lose some of its urgency every time the action slows down, which is often.

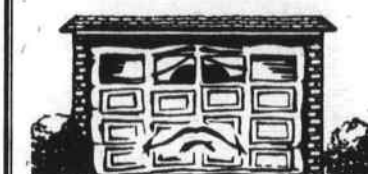

Jim Jarmusch's "Mystery Train" is about 180 degrees away from the villainous ruin of a young French sculptress. Jarmusch, who wrote the three-part anthology that makes up "Mystery Train," relies on a hard-edged look that is odd, humorous and more than a little self-satisfied.

His three stories are tied together by a gunshot and all involve people who are not native to Memphis, a tired city haunted by the ghost of Elvis Presley. In the first, and best episode, we meet two young Japanese travelers searching out the roots of rock-n-roll. Masatoshi Nagase is the stern young man who refuses to let his awe show, while Youki tried so hard to ensure that the audience understand we are in the same time frame during all three perspectives. Jarmusch should have a little more respect for his audience's intelligence.

Still, the idea of being presented with three stories that all touch one another, no matter how slightly, is intriguing. Jarmusch also gives us a host of kinky supporting roles played by such diverse personalities as Elizabeth Bracco, Cinque Lee, Rockets Redglare and Screamin' Jay Hawkins, resplendent in a bright red suit that could stand on its own against the muted colors of the film. And listen for Tom Waits, he's the voice of the radio announcer. Jarmusch also provides us with a loving look at a city that is on the decline, but still cherished for what it represents.

--Among the 750 young artists honored in the 40th Boston Globe Scholastic Art Awards competition are:

Burlington's Shephali Bodhe, Christine Brown, Allison Colgan, Marisa DiCicco, David Hoffman, Jamie Langan, Rod MacDonald, Katherine Mayo, Bonnie Montague, Denise Rezendes, Bonnie Sullivan, Andrew Taylor, Alan Crowell, and Rachel Bruti; Lynnfield's Jamie Allison, Rob Bazylewicz, Nathaniel Buchek, Nathaniel Buchek, Carlyn Cemiglia, Geoffrey Clow, Jennifer Clow, Kevin Davis, Steve Hollett, Philip Lai, Quan Nghiem, Nicole Rollins, Jennifer Diaz, Jim

Lawler, Joya Milano, and Todd Wilson; North Reading's Stephen Grant; Reading's Alex Svirsky, Cadence Thomas and Kevin Andrews; Wakefield's Wes Boyd, Lisa Ciancio, Adam Savje, Jason Gilroy, Jan Ledonne, and Erik Sorensen;

Winchester's Josie Acevedo, Christine Braga, Eric Fertman, Paul Randall, Mike Collins, David Keane, Meredith McCarter, Kristen Robbat, Josephine Thever, Lauren Wolfson, Angelo Amico, Julie Driscoll, Katie Waltherx, and Adi Zmiri;

And Woburn's Susanne Aldred,

John Caplis, Diana Gilbert, and Daniel Kelley.

Burlington High's art specialist Lorraine Sullivan was one of the judges of the 5,500 pieces in the five-region competition for students in grades 7-12.

--Representatives of the Boston & Maine Railroad Corporation recently spoke to Wakefield's Atwell School students about railroad safety. The informal presentation included a brief talk, film and question-and-answer period.

--Winchester's Parent to Parent series recently hosted its second panel discussion on kids, peers and parenthood. Panelists at McCall Junior High included William Maher, assistant principal; Dr. Richard D'Entremont, Winchester Hospital chief of pediatrics; and David Margolis, therapist. Clinical psychologist and Parent to Parent coordinator Dr. Hillary Turkewitz facilitated the discussion.

D'Entremont noted that while younger adolescents are experiencing a tyrannical drive to conform, the varying ages and rates at which puberty occurs create differences among them they cannot control.

Maher spoke to both the negative and positive effects of peer pressure, expressing his feeling that Winchester males feel more positive about doing well in school than those in many other communities.

Margolis suggested several strategies to help adolescents develop friendships, emphasizing the value of giving them numerous opportunities for fresh starts - such as in summer camps or social groups outside school.

--The snail costume was the most popular when Stoneham's United Councils recently sponsored a bus ride to town hall for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Fish.

Mrs. Callahan's North School kindergarten students "learned a lot from the performance" and had an "exciting" time, too. If Mr. and Mrs. Fish ever surface in Stoneham again, the students will no doubt clamor to see them - in fact, they'll probably fight tooth and snail.

Retired Men's Club meeting

At the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Wakefield Retired Men's Club on January 10 in the Wakefield Congregational Church, 255 members greatly enjoyed a one hour concert by the Club's 30 member band, most of whom are retired professional musicians and members of the Club. John Austin, Reading, the Band Chairman, introduced the band and Director Arnold Archer who led the band with a lot of vim and vigor.

They played many of the old favorites such as "Instant Concert," "High Lights from Camelot," and "The Star Spangled Spectacular" by George M. Cohan, and in closing, a special "Wakefield Men's Club March."

The concert also featured as soloist Club Member Bert Puglia who was a professional singer. After a long, recent illness, he has made a great comeback, and he sang favorites such as "Heart and Soul," "Sheik of Araby," and "How You Gonna Keep 'em Down on the Farm After They've Seen Parce" with his usual dynamic manner that the members appreciated very much.

The band practices once a week in the church, and they play many concerts during the year in nursing homes, hospitals and senior citizens clubs - all for the fun of it.

After the concert, President Andy McHugh, Saugus, opened the regular meeting by calling for the salute of the flag held by Frank Celani, Melrose. He then introduced the following who came for the first time: Ray Dole, Wakefield; Herbert Greene, Melrose; Rudy Liberator, Reading; Russ Perry, Melrose; H. Richard Wagg, Stoneham; Ronald Winslow, Reading.

Those attending for the third time were Clarence Blair; Edward Burden, Zigrig Olson; Donald Polletier; and Charles Varney. They were inducted into membership by Tom Coughlan, Melrose, who led the members in the lively Club Welcome song, and then President McHugh gave each the Bylaws and membership card.

Second Vice President John Vernon, Peabody, called up five members who had had recent birthdays and the members sang "Happy Birthday" for them.

Visitation Chairman John Griffin, Wakefield, read the names of those in hospitals and nursing homes and called for a moment of silence for Clifford Leavitt who passed away recently.

Club-Jester George Richards, Reading, entertained for a few minutes with his usual good jokes and he assisted Tom Coughlan in drawing the door prizes for Neale Labelle, Reading and Cy Vanderparre, Wakefield.

Travel Club Chairman Henry Murphy announced that there would be a Club trip to Kushners Resort, Monticello, New York on March 6, 7 and 8 and asked members to sign up for it. The next meeting of the Travel Club will have slides shown by Larry Barbuto on "Eruptions of Mt. Helena."

First Vice President Joseph Pellitier, Lynnfield, announced that next meeting on February 14 would have a Boy Scout theme suggested by Les York and he asked all who had been members wear their uniforms, badges and decorations.

Membership Chairman Peter Calore, Wakefield, and his committee greeted the members and gave out the name tags; and Hospitality Chairman Bill Behnke, Reading, and his helpers served the coffee and donuts.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

My friends, Fred Ezekial and Michael Kravchuk worked on a farm in New Hampshire during summer vacation from college. They had worked very hard loading a wagon with hay. However, they had quite a problem getting the donkey to pull the wagon. No amount of begging, pleading, pushing and pulling would make the donkey move. Mike had a bright idea, "Fred," he said, "let's get some hay, put it under the donkey and put a match to it - that will make the critter move." Fred thought it was a great idea, so they put the hay under the stubborn animal, then lit it. When the hay started to blaze away, the donkey moved alright. Only about 10 feet then stopped, placing the wagon directly over the fire, burning it completely to the ground. Can you imagine Fred and Mike with their past history telling me that I must have fallen off the turnip wagon when I was a kid?

Popeye, Olive Oyle and Wimpy were my favorites in the comic section of the newspaper. Popeye would often say, "I yam what I yam and that's all I yam." Well folks, that's a gem of an expression if I ever heard one. There isn't any pretension, grandstanding or conceit in that statement. On the contrary, what Popeye is saying is, "Here I am, take it or leave it, warts and all!" At a Christmas party for the lab employees where I worked, a woman asked Mel L. who he was and what he did at the lab. When he told her he was in the maintenance section she dropped him like a hot potato. When she got to me, she asked, "Are you somebody?" "Yes," I said, "I'm a nuclear physicist." "Oh-h-h-h," she cooed, "Tell me all about yourself - that's remarkable for such a young man." "I'll tell the world it is," I replied, "especially when I didn't even finish high school!" When will people learn that it doesn't make any difference who or what we are, we all have something to learn from one another.

So help me folks, what follows is a true story. A chemist was constantly retying a loose shoelace on his right shoe. (He would do that about 10 times a day.) I said to him one day, "Do you want me to show you how to tie that shoelace so it will stay tied the rest of the day?" He agreed. He held the two ends in his hands, then placed the left one over the lace in his right hand. "Okay, hold it," I said, "reverse that order - put the right end of the lace over the left one, then proceed to tie the knot." Folks, it worked like a charm. From that day on, no more retying a shoelace every hour. I hope it helps someone reading Woodchips too.

A super salesman was trying to sell a home freezer to my Aunt Nora. "You can save enough money on your food bill to pay for the freezer," he said to her. "Look sonny," Aunt Nora replied, "I'm paying for a car on car and bus fare. I'm paying for my washing machine with the laundry money I'm saving and I'm paying a mortgage with the rent money, so, please, I can't afford to save any more money right now!"

My sister Maureen's little daughter, Diane, told her, "I'm leaving this house and I'm not ever coming back." "Go right along," her mother said. Ten minutes later Diane was back as though nothing happened. "Why hello there," Maureen said, "I thought you were leaving." "I was," Diane said, "but I missed my plane!"

How many readers remember the wonderful days of ballroom dancing? Well, Emily Fraher of Woburn remembers and I thank her for refreshing my memory of the names of where I used to slide and glide in my younger days: Raymore Playmore, State Ballroom and Riverside, all in Boston; Spanish Gables in Revere; Moseley's on the Charles; Kimball's Starlight; Totem Pole in Norumbega Park and Beachview. Thank you, Emily, I appreciated your letter.

My friend Father Richard Messina said to me, "One of the many advantages of being a priest is that the Roman collar keeps family and friends from giving me any of those horrible Christmas neckties."

Personality winners: John C. Callan, Edward Callahan, Ted Rose and Joseph Altavesta, all of

Woburn; Robert H. Skelley, Jennifer Rumrill, Amy Gallagher, Eileen Connolly and Ed Baumann, all of Stoneham; Lisa Altiviti, Gina Martiniello, Emily Ficciello, AnnMarie Andersen and Joan Marsi, all of Wilmington; Paul Calistro, Clyde and Gladys Conway (Congratulations on your 58th wedding anniversary), Alex Millspaugh and Derek Weitz, all of Tewksbury; Al Lahood, Dr. Robert Munnally, Susan Whittle and Peter Hichborn, all of Reading; Jyoti Narasimhan, Jennifer Greene, Diane Jackson and Lisa Schertel, all of Burlington; Tara Sullivan, Lisa Magnuson, Pam Martin, Amy Chekos, Pam Santorelli, Sarah Wilcox, Coleen McMenimen, Sherrie Fairbanks and Karyn Dooley, all of Wakefield; Matthew Pacione, Jim McGreehan, Mike Morrison, Jim Capodanno, Rob Bourque and Adam Piandes, all of Winchester; Shirley McFadden and "Elroy", Eileen Pettencchio, Mary Gallagher, Marion McNabb and Melanie Dumont, all of North Reading.

A radio and TV weather forecaster got up one morning and looked out the window as the snow was piling up on the lawn. He turned to his wife and said, "Martha, I sure needed this snow storm. I've been predicting snow for a week." Folks, have you seen the new weather girl, Nancy Russo, on TV 4? She's so beautiful that I don't care what the weather will be, just looking at her is like the sun shining - even on the 6 O'Clock news. I remember two years ago when I couldn't go to work because of the ten inches of "partly cloudy" on my driveway.

Mario DiMinno of Stoneham said that the first sign of hives is when bees start flying in and out of your nose. I asked Grandpa Angelo (who is 92) how he liked the birthday gifts he got. "I didn't like any of the gifts! I got stuff that was waterproof, shockproof or shrink proof but no one had the sense to give me a couple of bottles of 90 proof!" Father John McDonough and a native of Woburn told me that he is proud of his uncle, Michael McDonough, and niece, Julie McDonough, both on the Woburn Police Department and nephew, Sgt. John McDonough, of the Mass. State Police.

I love a mystery movie, story or play, but not a mystery dinner. A waiter asked me after dinner last week, "How did you find the steak, sir?" "No problem at all," I replied, "I just moved the potato and there it was!" The doctor in a clinic asked my friend, Bob Giguere, "How are you feeling?"

"It's like this," Bob replied, "I'm still kicking but I'm not raising any dust." Bill Burton told the waitress, "Two eggs, please. Don't fry them a second after the white is cooked. Don't turn them over. Not too much salt. No pepper and make it snappy!" When the waitress just stood there, Bill exclaimed, "Well what are you waiting for?" "The hen's name is Eleanor - is that alright?" Super Star of the week is Elaine Haggerty.

The exhibition and catalogue are made possible by a $1.4 million grant from Digital Equipment Corporation, the largest corporate grant in the Museum of Fine Arts' history.

BROADWAY BOUND IN LEXINGTON

The Centre Stage Theatre of Lexington/Bedford is proud to announce that it will present Neil Simon's Broadway Bound. This is an area premiere of the third play in Mr. Simon's autobiographical trilogy.

The play is set in the Jerome home in the late 1940's and tells the story of Eugene Jerome (Neil Simon) as he begins his voyage to Broadway. It is both a heart warming and tender recount of that period in his life.

The play is directed by Ron Godfrey, resident director of the company and features Ruth Simon and Steven Friedman of Lexington, Jon Olsen of Roxbury, Philip Tartas of Gloucester, Brian Kalin of Acton and Terri Muller of Arlington. All have extensive experience working in community theatre.

The show will be performed at St. Brigid's Church in Lexington, in the round. Since seating is limited, it is suggested that you purchase tickets early. In order to do so, simply call (617) 862-3255 or 861-1868. Show dates are Friday and Saturday, February 2 and 3, at 8 p.m.

"WINTER WASSAIL" AT NASHOBA VALLEY

Wassailing is the ancient tradition of blessing an orchard and wishing for a bountiful yield in the coming year. The Winter Wassail at Nashoba Valley Winery is a special weekend of wassailing and other activities in celebration of the winter season.

Twice each day the Wassail Master and attendant musicians will lead visitors to a venerable apple tree. After much dancing, song and fanfare, the tree will receive a ceremonial piece of bread and splash of wine. All present will then join in causing a great noise, to scare away evil spirits and insure a bountiful crop.

Other activities include winery tours and tastings, story telling, and music by the Medicinal String Band. There will also be demonstrations of maple tree tapping, barrel-making, and the "disgorging" of champagne.

"Snow permitting," there will be cross country skiing for visitors and wassail-theme snow sculptures.

The Winter Wassail takes place on Saturday and Sunday, February 10 and 11, from 12 noon to 5 p.m. (winery open 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.). Admission is free.

From Route 495 take Exit 27, Route 117 one mile west to the blinking light at Bolton Center; left at light, 1/4 mile to winery. For more information call (508) 779-5521.

"AH WILDERNESS"

AT WHELOCK THEATRE

The Wheelock Family Theatre will stage a revival of Eugene O'Neill's classic but rarely produced comedy, "Ah, Wilderness!" for a three-weekend run starting Friday night, February 9.

This heartwarming story of a young man's coming of age is testimony to the power of family love. Featured will be Peter Battis, Monique McIntyre, Ed Peed, Jane Staab, Jenny Sterlin, Jessica Walling and Jared Waye - all favorites with Boston audiences.

"Ah, Wilderness!" is O'Neill's only comedy and one which is especially appropriate for family audiences, according to Susan Kosoff, producer and director. The play is recommended for 12-year-olds and older.

Performances of "Ah, Wilderness!" will be 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights and 3 p.m. on Sundays from February 9 to 25. The Theatre is located at 180 The Riverway in Boston on the campus of Wheelock College. Limited free parking is available.
